Rail Lines as Promoters of Farming in America.

More Than Three-Fourths Mileage Represented.

NINE-TENTHS LAND AREA

Agricultural Helps an Aid to Business.

Other Items of Interest in the Traffic World.

For a generation or more the railroads of this country have been making efforts to increase the number of farmers in certain regions, thus trying to promote agricultural prosperity, to increase their revenues derived from hauling farm products, and to encourage agricultural development. Within the past decade these efforts to encourage agriculture have been extended to include instructions in methods of farming, investigation of the possibilities of a region, assistance in organizing agricultural associations, cooperation with state and county fairs, employment of farm labor, and in finding markets and other helpful lines of work.

These projects are not confined to railroad companies, the latter are, however, the prominent of the several classes of business concerns engaged in similar work. Therefore the summary of recent developments in the agricultural promotion work of railroads issued by Secretary Wilson in a recent bulletin of the bureau of statistics of the department of agriculture, entitled "Railroads and Farming" is of timely interest. This publication reviews briefly some historical features of the subject, giving instances of efforts made by the railroads in the promotion of agriculture in Kansas, Texas and Louisiana during the two decades from 1870 to 1890.

The principal features of present-day promotion work are described and an analytical outline shows these features in detail. More than three-fourths of the railroad mileage of the United States is operated by companies which engage in special efforts to promote agriculture. A list of these companies is given at the end of the bulletin. These railroads enter counties whose total area is almost nine-tenths of the total land area of the United States and whose farms compose more than nine-tenths of the farm area in the country. This promotion work on the part of the railroads is a business proposition. Improvement in agriculture means more traffic and more revenue. Large sums of money are being expended systematically by numerous companies.

NEW ORIENT LINE OPEN.

After Today Tickets Will Be Sold to Fort Stockton, Texas.

Wichita, Kan., Nov. 15.—Part of the line which has been labeled "New Under Construction" on the time tables of the Orient, has been opened by the road to passenger and freight traffic. Until now the Orient has been selling tickets from Wichita only as far south as Girvin, Tex., but after November 15 tickets will be sold through to Fort Stockton, Tex. The new line of track opened is only 12 miles long, but its completion is significant as a step toward filling the gaps in the road and making it a through line to the Gulf.

But 338 miles of uncompleted track now lies between Wichita and Topoila, the southern terminus of the Orient on the Gulf. One section of the line not yet opened is between Fort Stockton and Rio Grande, a distance of 140 miles, and another between San Antonio and Hornillos, 135 miles. The steel is steadily being laid on uncompleted sections of the line, as the recent opening to traffic as far as Fort Stockton shows. Railroad officials can not predict at just what time in the future the whole will be laid and opened.

The isolated southern sections of the road on which trains are being run are managed by a separate set of receivers with headquarters at San Angelo.

MISSOURI PACIFIC AFTER L. & G.

Appoints Committee to Investigate Physical Condition.

New York, Nov. 15.—Officials announcement has been made that the Missouri Pacific Railway company is seeking to acquire control of the International & Great Northern railway. The announcement by Speyer & Co., the Gould bankers, reads as follows: "President Bush of the Missouri Pacific railway has informed his board of directors that he believes that the International & Great Northern should become an integral part of the Missouri Pacific-Iron Mountain system and under his advice the board of directors are negotiating for an option on International & Great Northern preferred and common stock holdings of the Jay Gould estate and Fran J. Gould."

"The Missouri Pacific board has appointed a special committee to investigate the physical and financial condition of the International & Great Northern."

ROCK ISLAND CAN'T HANDLE IT.

President Mudge Says Road Has Heavy Traffic.

New York, Nov. 15.—Directors of the Rock Island system met here and reorganized by electing all former officers.

President Mudge stated: "The Rock Island has more traffic than it can handle promptly. There is no congestion, but it is impossible to supply all the cars that are asked for by shippers."

CAR SHORTAGE IN KANSAS.

Shippers Losing Money by Conditions in Southwest.

Hutchinson, Kan., Nov. 14.—As one means of solving the car shortage problem, the Missouri Pacific railway is converting stock cars into salt cars for use on this division. The Missouri Pacific is taking the stock cars, lining them with tar paper and converting them into salt cars, and the box cars heretofore used in handling salt will be used for grain shipments, thus relieving the car shortage.

Fifty cars have already been converted in this manner for use on this division and fifty more are now being altered. This will add 100 cars more to the supply on this division, which will help some.

The car situation, however, is worse than ever. It is becoming all the more acute, and the pinch is being felt more severely, because many farmers and stockmen are now sustaining losses by being unable to make deliveries.

The Santa Fe is short 800 cars on this division, it was declared today by an official. This is notwithstanding the fact that 2,500 new cars which are being delivered and some of which are already in use here.

The Rock Island is in a similar predicament. The Hutchinson territory is unable to come anywhere near handling the large amount of grain and broom corn now being delivered at the country stations for shipment.

A SHORTAGE IN TRAMPS, TOO. Railroad Men in Nebraska Worry Over Scarcity.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 15.—Local railroad men say that there has been little trouble with tramps this fall. As a rule, they pass through Lincoln in large numbers at this time of year. "I have seen fewer tramps this fall than for years," declared a Burlington man. "Where they have gone to, I can't even guess. Other years they have given tramps all kinds of trouble because of their determination to steal a ride. A few hoboes are passing over the road, but they manage to keep out of sight of conductors and brakemen. The railroads are glad to get rid of the tramp nuisance, even temporarily."

Last spring and in the early winter the Nebraska railroads had more trouble with the free-ride gentry than for many years. At times there was as many as 40 or 50 hobo trains passing out of the city. Trampmen warned to keep the weary boys off their trains had sometimes to use force to eject them. Some hobo trains were even shot at by tramps. Last spring there were several women tramps in Lincoln. The woman tramp made her appearance in the last two years.

HEAD OF MIDGET ROAD DEAD. R. O. Cheney Was President of Line Two Miles Long.

South Manchester, Conn., Nov. 15.—Richard O. Cheney, president of the South Manchester Railroad company, and widely known as a capitalist, is dead at his home here, aged 71. His railroad is said to be the smallest in the country, extending from this place to Manchester, a distance of two miles.

FEED HENS BUCKWHEAT. Farmer Says This Will Make Them Lay.

Winsted, Conn., Nov. 15.—"Gosh," exclaimed M. Weins, a farmer, when apprised that fresh eggs had soared to 72 cents a dozen in New York. "Why don't they take a green tip," he added, "and do I do feed the hens buckwheat in the morning. That warms 'em up. Then give 'em dried corn on the cob. By the time they get it pecked off they're ready to lay. It is the best receipt to make hens lay I know of. Take it from me on the eggs."

NICK ALTROCK DIVORCED. Wife Declared He Spent Little Time With Her.

Cincinnati, Nov. 15.—Nicholas Altrock, a member of the Washington American League baseball team and former star pitcher of the Chicago White Sox, was divorced today and his wife restored to her maiden name of Hannah Wendt. In an attempt to obtain the negro pugilist's release from jail, was today sentenced to one year in jail for contempt of court by Federal Judge Landis. Jones, it was alleged, scheduled property which he had added to his wife's name. Judge Landis declared that Jones had "wilfully and maliciously lied under oath in court in relation to his ownership of the property."

Jones will appeal, he said.
